Inclusive Growth through SME Competitiveness

G24 Special Workshop on Growth and Reducing Inequality
5 September 2017

Marion Jansen
Chief Economist
International Trade Centre
What do SMEs and low-wage workers have in common?

- They are numerous
- Many low-wage workers are employed in SMEs
- They tend to have low bargaining power within a globalized economy

“What matters for SMEs is likely to matter for your people”
Large productivity gaps between SMEs and large companies
Good for growth, good for equity

Higher productivity for SMEs is likely to have two direct effects:

- Contributes to GDP growth
- higher wages in the low-wage segment of the economy
What determines SME competitiveness?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Layers of competitiveness</th>
<th>Capacity to compete</th>
<th>Capacity to connect</th>
<th>Capacity to change</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Firm level capabilities</td>
<td>Does firm know about quality control systems?</td>
<td>Does firm know how to use information tools (e.g. web)?</td>
<td>Does firm train workers?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Immediate business environment</td>
<td>Does firm have access to affordable certification bodies?</td>
<td>Does firm have access to support institutions (e.g. employer organization?)</td>
<td>Does the firm have access to skilled workers in region?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>National environment</td>
<td>Is a national quality infrastructure in place?</td>
<td>Quality of telecommunication infrastructure</td>
<td>Is the education system good?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In line with approaches to assess competitiveness used by others but with stronger focus on the firm level and on the immediate business environment.
Understanding of drivers of SME productivity:
ITC SME Competitiveness score and GDP per capita

Source: SME Competitiveness Outlook 2016 using World Bank Enterprise Survey data
Higher competitiveness => higher bargaining power
SME competitiveness and living wages

- Do “more competitive” SMEs automatically pay higher wages?
  ⇒ The answer is probably no

- Is a certain level of “competitiveness” a precondition for the payment of higher wages?
  ⇒ The answer is likely to be yes
5 October 2017: launch of SME Competitiveness Outlook 2017 “The Region: a Door to Global Trade”

http://www.intracen.org/smecompetitiveness/