

Fig. 6.2 Tripling annual ODA-related external flows to 100+ low- and middle-income countries from 2024 to 2030 is feasible through more effective utilization of existing capital and capabilities of IFIs

Current

Proposed additional 2024-30

Source: Author's calculations.

Multilateral ODA

Bilateral ODA

| llion | SDR donations by advanced countries and China (60% of US$474 billion)  |
|-------|---|
| llion | Direct SDR allocation to developingcountries  |
| lion  | Increased MDB direct lending and grants through fuller use of capital headroom  |
| llion | Increased MDB co-financing and riskmitigation of private finance throughfuller use of capital headroom                                |
|       | Tullel use of capital flead offit   |
| llion | Increased international anddomestic private finance leveragedby expanded MDB co-financing,partial guarantees, and asset recycling |

Repurposing the Resilience and Sustainability Trust (RST): proposed allocation of rechannelled SDRs

RST Window 1: Coal retirement and replacement and methane abatement (Global Energy Transition Mecha RST Window 2: Social protection floors (Global Acce and Social Protection for Just Transitions) RST Window 3: Basic research on renewable energy a land use technologies (Green Revolution 2.0) RST Window 4: Pandemic response and prevention (A COVAX Initiative and Pandemic Prevention, Prepared Response Fund) PRGT: Developing country debt relief and reduction Common Framework on Debt Treatment) Total

|                        | (US dollarequivalent, billions) |
|------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| d industrialanism) | 80                                  |
| elerator on Jobs       | 80                                  |
| and low-carbon         | 50                                  |
| ACT-A/dness and    | 10                                  |
| (Revised G20           | 45                                  |
|                        | 265                                 |

Richard Samans

OPEN ACCESS

Human-Centred Economics The Living Standards of Nations

palgrave macmillan

The e-book version is available on an open access basis at:

https://link.springer.com/book/9783031374340